Series C, 4th Qtr, Week 40: Your Art Class has October Balloon Pets

Balloon animals are fun. There are many videos and books on how to make balloon animals. I have always loved watching someone else making them. I am always afraid they will pop! Besides the party balloon animals there are also giant balloon animals that parade down the street in the famous Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Your Art Class can create balloon animals to be spicy or smart because people born in October are both smart and spicy. Enjoy the October birthday pets!

Try drawing your own balloon animals. If you find it difficult using the round shapes try copying one of the black and white drawings and complete. When adding color this lesson is about shades of a color. If possible cardstock is recommended to do your work on.

Music Suggestion: Because the lesson is about adding black to color to make a shade of the color the Rolling Stones' hit "Paint it Black" would be fun. A very different genre of music would be Peggy Lee's 1956 jazz song "Black Coffee." Because one of the samples sports a large cat balloon Ted Nugent's "Cat Scratch Fever" would be fun.

Enrichment: For the hot air balloon Festival of the month try the Saint-Jean-sur-fest in Richelieu Quebec, Canada. The artist to explore is Jeff Koons who was born in 1955. He became popular in the 1980's making everyday objects gorgeous. In 1984 he created the famous sculpture, "Balloon Dog." Some critics love his pop art, others ridicule him. His sculpture of the Balloon Dog sold for 58.4 million dollars. He has since done other balloon dogs in colors: red, magenta, blue, etc. He has also done a balloon swan and monkey!

Aspect of Art: Refers to color. Shade indicates a darker version of a color when mixed with black.
